

THE ST ANDREWS ANGELS TO HOST VIRTUAL EVENT

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, APRIL 29TH, 2020 – The St Andrews Angels has today announced it will host a virtual event on Wednesday the 6th May, designed to replace upcoming meetings postponed due to the on-going COVID-19 epidemic.

The event will feature three entrepreneurs from the University of St Andrews alumni and student communities who will share insights into their businesses and updates on their future fundraising plans, including:

- Philip Mackey, Managing Director, St Andrews Brewing Co
- Dr Magnus Nicolson, Chairman, ILC Therapeutics
- Toby and Jonah Lowenstein, Co-Founders, Otis

Alex Rowe, Co-Founder of St Andrews Angels described the event as “a great opportunity to increase awareness of the group and connect alumni in a way that hasn’t been done before, as demonstrated by the locations of many of the attendees, a large number of whom will be joining from the United States”.

Registration for the event is free and will commence at 5pm GMT. Registration details can be found via standrewsangels.co.uk.

About the St Andrews Angels

Having launched in 2019, the St Andrews Angels members have invested over £100,000 of equity into early stage companies either founded by alumni or with a direct connection to the University. Made up of individuals from the worlds of venture capital, private equity, real estate, law, finance and many more, the network is in its infancy but has ambitions to grow into a substantial network connecting students and alumni with investors, mentors and advisors.
